PRESS RELEASE

IAPR: Tax Service Services are established - Which Tax Offices are consolidated in Attica and Thessaloniki

The major organizational restructuring of the Independent Authority for Public Revenue and its transition to its new operating model, presented at the beginning of the year by its Governor, Giorgos Pitsilis, continues at a steady pace.

Key elements of the new model are:

1. The establishment of centralized services in Attica and Thessaloniki (Certification and Collection Centers, Capital Tax Centers, Tax Procedures and Service Centers), to which all the functions currently performed by the Tax Offices are transferred.
2. The evolution of the current Tax Offices of Attica and Thessaloniki into new-type services, without specific local competence, which will operate as Tax Service Services. Staffed with experienced and specialized personnel, in spaces with a modern and ergonomic design, which will offer functional efficiency and spatial flexibility, with a minimal environmental footprint, the new services will focus on welcoming, informing and directly serving taxpayers who will be guided in the use of digital applications and facilitated in their tax obligations' correct fulfillment.

The Governor of IAPR stated: "Consistent with our commitment to constantly improve for the benefit of citizens and businesses, we are moving forward rapidly in the organizational evolution of IAPR. Simultaneously with the centralization of our services in Attica and Thessaloniki, we are upgrading the Tax Offices to Tax Service Services, removing geographical restrictions. We are creating a new service model for citizens and businesses, which reduces bureaucracy and at the same time offers better services to taxpayers."
