IAPR: Foreign bank cards can also be used for the payment of tax obligations

Taxpayers now have the option to use foreign-issued payment cards in their transactions with IAPR. “Another service is being delivered today to citizens and businesses, making the daily transactions of foreign card holders with tax obligations in Greece easier,” emphasized the Governor of IAPR, Giorgos Pitsilis.

In particular, the system for accepting payments via foreign-issued cards in the EFT/POS and e-POS networks of the Independent Authority for Public Revenue, as well as e-POS for the e-Paravolo, was put into productive operation.

The new service covers the transaction needs of expatriates, residents abroad, tourists and businesses with IAPR, being an effective tool that optimizes service and further facilitates tax compliance.

Taxpayers can now fulfill their tax and other obligations, such as payment of Unified Property Tax (ENFIA), e-Parabolo, fees for pleasure vessels and day cruisers (TEPAI) and other certified debts, using foreign-issued cards, which bear the marks of the international organizations VISA and MASTERCARD.
